Cooney looks forward to a unified ASI

By William Lundquist
Staff Writer

Patrick Cooney, who won the office of president of Associated Students, Inc. (ASI), considers building coalitions to be his first order of business.

He and Vice President-elect Forrest Hillis have already scheduled their first meeting. Cooney stressed the unity of next year's executive officers.

Cooney even hinted that there may be a place in his administration for his former opponents. "It would be a shame to have people with the ambition and skills to run for ASI president not involved in ASI."

Of course, he hopes his former running-mate, Scott Anderson, will serve in some capacity. "Obviously, I want to see Scott get involved."

However, Cooney made it clear that he has made no decisions about appointees yet. He insisted that, under his administration, ASI will not be an elitist organization. He would like to encourage every student to apply for the various positions available.

"I want to open it up so that every student who wants to serve in ASI will have a chance to do so. I want people to feel that they are all part of a student body."

Part of his coalition-building strategy involves working closely with the ASI Board of Directors. He has worked with several of the members in the past.

He also wants to establish a good relationship with members of the CSUSB administration. Although he represents the students' views, he feels he will be able to work well with President Evans and others.

Most important to Cooney is his relationship with students. He actually intends to put a table on the lawn in front of the library once or twice a month, where he will invite students to ask him questions.

He would like to improve upon the open door policy of the present administration by actively soliciting opinions.

"If you're not getting feedback, it's hard to make a change. I sincerely want to get feedback from students."

One of the reasons that he wants opinions is that he will stress the future in his administration. He would like to lay down a comprehensive plan for ASI for the next three to five years.

Now that the madness of the ASI run off elections are over, the campus can once again begin to settle down. The new ASI President-elect is Patrick Cooney. Cooney won the election over Carlos Bolanos with 611 votes to 536, a 75 vote margin. Forrest Hillis (the new ASI Vice President-elect) won over Scott Anderson with 573 to 532 votes, a 41 vote margin. Last, but not least, the new Board of Director for Humanities is Teresa Owen, winning over William Lundquist with 86 votes to 79 (a 7 vote margin).

Students fight rate hikes

Tired of yearly tuition hikes, students on a wide variety of campuses have begun protesting price hikes in recent weeks.

In marked contrast to the relative silence that greeted most of the tuition increases announced annually during the past decade, students at Pacific Lutheran, Arizona State, Syracuse and Rutgers universities, City University of New York, and the universities of Miami, Michigan and Massachusetts, to name a few, have protested the hikes.

On April 11, for example, 3,000 University of Rhode Island students booed down Gov. Edward DiPrete as he tried to explain why he was cutting state funding to URI by $9 million, thus forcing another nine percent tuition jump for next year.

More ominously, a group called STRIKE (Students Rebuilding for Knowledge and Education) claimed to have caused an April 7 fire-bombing that wrecked the office of Wesleyan University President William Chace. In an April 11 letter, the group said it hoped to put a "premium on thinking and learning, as opposed to politics and earning."

A few days after that, activists met at Oberlin College in Ohio to try to fashion a national effort to slow down tuition increases everywhere.

"Just one school can't buck the trend," said Robin Templeton, a member of the group that sponsored the April 13-15 Conference on Educational Access and Equality at Oberlin. She and others at the conference hoped that the sheer strength in numbers from the coalition would force administrators and legislators to notice students' growing financial hardships.

"I used to see tuition increases as inevitable, but it has reached the point where it has become ridiculous," said organizer Eric Haag, a student at Oberlin.

"People used to assume that if tuition increased, then financial aid would too.

Career fair draws 62 employers

By Renee Staples
Staff Writer

Cal State San Bernardino's annual Career Opportunities Fair was held in the gymnasium on April 19, 1990. The purpose of the fair was to bring students, alumni, and the community together with employers who offer potential career opportunities.

Sixty two employers were on hand to give information, and accept a few resumes. The employers ranged from franchises such as Pizza Hut, and Footlocker, to major banking and insurance companies. Several governmental agencies such as the Internal Revenue Service, and Social Security Administration were also recruiting. A few city and county police and sheriff's organizations were actively searching for a few good souls. The employers were treated to a buffet lunch, compliments of the University.

Those attending the event were given information booklets describing the participating employers. The booklets contain the addresses and a short description for each employers. Four free workshops, which dealt with topics such as job interviewing, resume writing, and career planning. Opportunities were also given for attendees to mingle among the displays, pick up applications, and pamphlets, and talk personally with the various recruiters.

The Career Opportunities Fair was organized by the campus Career Development Department, located in the Student Services building. This office can assist students and alumni with all types of current and future career needs. If you missed the fair, there are still some information books available in the Career Development Office. While there, why not check out the workshops offered, and the current job listings available?

This year's Career Fair was another success. Those who did not make it this year should mark their calendars and be there next year.

CAR fee deadline extended

Computer Assisted Registration (CAR) for the Fall '90 quarter begins May 7th and continues until August 23rd. Registering during first priority (May 7 - 16) provides students the best chance of receiving a complete schedule. For instance, through CAR last Fall, 83% of the students received complete schedules with 67% of those students receiving schedules exactly as requested (no section substitutions).

To make it easier for the students this Fall, the fee payment deadline has been extended by approximately five weeks. Students will be billed in August and have until September 7th to pay their fees. Classes will begin on September 27th.

Many will recall the difficulties encountered at walk-through registration last Fall! Due to unforeseeable problems, students waited in line from two to seven hours to register. Additionally, when the doors for walk-through opened, 186 courses had already closed through the CAR process.

Therefore, make it easy on yourself. REGISTER NOW - PAY LATER! Remember, 1st priority is May 7 - 16th and academic advisement is required. Make an appointment today!

Saving the air

By Jacob J. Powell
Staff Writer

Norton Younglove spoke at CSUSB last Thursday to address the major problem of air pollution in Southern California. Younglove has been a member of the South Coast Air Quality Management District since 1982 and was elected Chairman in 1987. This gives him a lot of credibility as a person that is greatly concerned with the pollution problem that we are facing in this area. He is also Chairman of the Board of Supervisors for Riverside county.

The problems that Southern California faces are great because every day that we don't clean up the air it will cost us more in the future. "The cost of not cleaning the air is at least one billion dollars a month," says Younglove.

The reason that we have a greater problem with air pollution than other major metropolises is the geographical area in which we live. During most of the year we have an inversion layer which causes the polluted area to remain caught by the mountains instead of dissipating or being diluted by the wind. The amount of pollutants in the atmosphere on a given day doesn't change but the ambient air does. Ambient air is that air which is moving around in the Los Angeles basin on any given day, the more air that is moving the less pollution that remains stationary.

Younglove also stated that the health risks of smog are also costing us a lot of money in the form of hospital visits and sick leave. The reason for this is the gases which make up smog: ozone (O₃), nitrous oxide and nitrous dioxide (NO_x) and carbon monoxide. The gases are known as reactive organic agents (ROGs), and they can be very detrimental to different life forms, as well as damaging by coming down in the form of acid rain. Automobile emissions give off 95% of the carbon monoxide in our atmosphere, which means that we, as car drivers, are one of the greatest contributors to this problem. Another section of society that causes the problem is the industrial factories which give off emissions at an alarming rate.

The state of California has recently initiated a Clean Air Plan for the next 17 years which consists of three phases. Younglove says that if we adhere to this plan we can greatly reduce the amount of pollution in our area. If we don't it can only get worse. At this time children in the San Bernardino and Riverside counties who grow up in this area suffer from a reduced lung capacity of 10% to 15%. The best ways to combat this pollution is by stricter regulations of factories, a switch to cleaner burning fuels, and a great emphasis on the ideas of mass transportation.

As people living in Southern California, we can play a great part in reducing the amount of pollution in the air—just by being conscientious and using the resources at our disposal wisely and sparingly. If we want the world to be a great place for our kids, we have to start doing something about the present situation.

L.I.S.N. provides welfare attorney

ATTENTION: All students with children making less than $10,000.00 annually are ordered by the State of California to quit school and go to work full time. If you refuse to cooperate you will be put on money management and no longer have control of your own money. Plus, because of your suspicious behavior you will also be investigated.

This is just one of the practices used by California's welfare program - GAIN.

L.I.S.N. (Low Income Support Network) will be presenting welfare rights attorney, Colleen Fahey Fearn. Colleen has worked for Legal Aid in San Diego for the last 20 years. She will be speaking about what GAIN does and its advantages. To be included in the discussion are the problems encountered by GAIN participants.

Please take your opportunity to learn the issues surrounding GAIN on Wednesday, May 9, at 2:00 p.m. in the Sycamore room of the Lower Commons.

Cousin receives dissertation award

Dr. Patricia Tefft Cousin, assistant professor of advanced studies in the School of Education at CSUSB, is the recipient of an "Outstanding Dissertation Award" from the International Reading Association, one of the largest professional organizations in the teaching field.

As one of only 10 award winners, Cousin has been invited to speak on her dissertation at the organization's annual conference slated for May 10 in Atlanta, GA. The dissertation is entitled "Language Use in a Special Education Resource Room: The Social Construction of Learning Success and Failure."

In explaining the topic, Cousin said, "I studied the students' reading and writing difficulties in a special education resource room and focused on how the curriculum could be restructured to better support their development in these areas." Commenting on the award, she noted, "I was really thrilled. I was pleased that my study was given this recognition by my peers."

Cousin holds a Ph. D. in language education from Indiana University and an Ed.S. in curriculum and instruction from Tennessee State University. She received an M.A. in special education from Tennessee State University and holds a B.S. in early childhood education from the University of Wisconsin.

Minnesota computer science prof charged with academic bias

The University of Minnesota's computer science department reportedly is punishing students whose advisers oppose the department chairman in an internal department power struggle.

Students whose advisers side with department chairman David Fox were more likely to pass a battery of tests to get into the computer science doctoral program than students whose advisers opposed Fox, the Minnesota Daily reported in a copyrighted story.

Anti-Fox students tended to fail the battery even if they had higher grade-point averages than students with pro-Fox advisers, the Daily said after matching students' success in getting into the program with the political stance of their advisers.

The struggle apparently is one for prestige and department control between Fox and two internationally renowned computer science professors, Oscar Ibarra and Sartaj Sahni. Ibarra has resigned from the school.

At issue is a series of requirements — collectively called the Written Preliminary Exam (WPE) — that students must meet to get into Minnesota's doctoral program. Students are graded in three parts: an exam, grade transcripts and personal references from faculty members.

The Daily found that one student with a pro-Fox adviser, a 3.75 grade-point average and a 1.75 (out of 4.0) on the WPE got into the program. But another student with a 3.9 GPA, a 2.4 WPE and an anti-Fox adviser failed to get into the program. The Daily cited several other instances that suggest the power struggle has influenced students' WPE scores.

"Many departments have opposing camps. I've heard this only as hearsay, but I believe it," said Jeffrey Kittay, publisher of Lingua Franca, a magazine that will cover scholarly politics when it begins publication in the fall.

The WPE is just the latest problem in the department, which has been plagued for months by charges of mismanagement on Fox's part, hate mail sent to Asian professors in the department and the copying of one professor's electronic mail.

"It's a potential danger that graduate students can get enmeshed in internal faculty disputes. It's very unprofessional (on the professors' parts) and very unfair to the students," Kittay said.

Neither anti-Fox Prof. James Slagle, who advised the student with the 3.9 GPA, nor Fox returned phone calls to College Press Service.

"I'm sure the process is subjective and that must be changed," Perry Busalacchi, a graduate student, told the Daily.

Busalacchi, who is Slagle's son-in-law, failed the exam even though he had a 3.9 GPA, published 14 articles during the 1988-89 year and teaches classes.

"I don't claim to have done brilliantly on the exam, but I think I did well enough to pass," he stated.

"There are certain bonds of loyalty forged between graduate students and professors, and sometimes the student becomes associated with the political stand of the professor," Kittay said.

over," stated Cooney.

One of Cooney's primary goals for next year will be to "have the board work as a team and AS be in unity."

"It's time to concentrate on student concerns and not our own," Cooney stated, "I am looking forward to working with Forrest. It will be a good year."

Hillis stated, "Teamwork is the key word. I look forward to serving the students. I'm thankful to those who voted for me. And I hope to prove myself to those who didn't vote for me so that at the end of next year they can look back and see that things were accomplished."

Although Cooney won, there is much question about how. Carlos was only behind by 45 votes and most of Robert Armenta's votes went to Bolanos during the run off elections. Many thought that he had it in the bag. But somehow more people voted in the run off elections (over 1200) than voted in the general elections (998). Many have questioned this. Was there a voter discrepancy? Was it legal for more people to vote in a run off election than voted in the generals? Bolanos started his campaign two weeks later than Cooney and did not have as much support. Yet in the general elections, Cooney was only ahead by 45 votes (374 to 329). This was not the 51% margin needed to win the election. This is why a run off was necessary. But the run off elections did not prove a 51% margins either. Does this mean that another run off election could be held? An anonymous source said that technically it could happen. But a violation would have to be brought up to the elections board and it would probably take a lot of time and effort.

Bolanos stated, "I made him (Cooney) work hard. Especially having started two weeks late into the campaign. He had a lot of support before I even got started, but he didn't win by that many votes. I think that says something. He won. I learned a lot. It was a great experience. I'm thankful to all those who supported me."

so it was no big deal when tuition went up," he added.

That attitude changed when Oberlin announced a nine percent tuition increase for the 1990-91 year — to $22,076 — and a freeze on the portion of the student body that could receive financial aid at 41 percent. As a result, a number of otherwise qualified students won't be able to afford to continue at the small private college.

Templeton is one of those students. Because she transferred from another college, she is not eligible for financial aid under Oberlin's new policy. Next year, she won't be returning.

"When other sources of revenue increase at rates slower than the rates of increase in costs, colleges require students to pay a larger share of the costs of education," she said.

Campuses, Frances explained, can get money from just a few sources: federal and state appropriations, research grants and contracts, private donations, earnings from endowment funds, auxiliary sales (such as bookstores) and, of course, students (in the form of tuition).

Ironically, student resistance is growing at a time when tuition supposedly is rising at the slowest rate in years. In January, Frances Creighton (11 percent) universities, and Gettysburg (10.7 percent) and Hope (9.2 percent) colleges.

It was in response to such announcements that students when to Oberlin to try to start a national price resistance movement.

Julianne Marley, president of the United States Student Association (USSA), along with Leonard Minsky, executive director of the National Coalition for Universities in the Public Interest (NCUPI), gave the opening speech on "Race, Class and Gender in Higher Education."

"These institutions have

"We're not working to build just one organization, but a movement where all the groups can get involved."

-Rich Cowan, NCUPI

But those who set the prices argue they don't arbitrarily raise tuition.

"Universities don't raise (tuition) just to raise it," said Sharon Coomes, who works in the budget and finance office at the University of Nevada - Las Vegas. "We try to depend on legislative funds, which are never enough."

Arthur Hauptman, who co-authored a tuition report for the American Council on Education and the College Board, concurred. "Schools aren't going out and raising prices just for the hell of it," he said.

Carol Frances, an economist commissioned by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) to write a study called "What Factors Affect College Tuition," says tuition is increased only to balance a school's budget.

predicted tuition nationwide would go up 6-to-8 percent, in contrast to the annual 10 percent annual jumps of the mid-eighties.

During February, March and April, however, individual schools' announcements of their prices for 1990-91 often have represented even bigger increases than predicted in Frances' report.

The same day Rhode Island students were booing their governor, for instance, Fairfield University in neighboring Connecticut unveiled a 13 percent price hike for next year.

Other students facing increases bigger than expected include those at the universities of Oklahoma (12.5 percent) and Miami (9.4 percent), Youngstown State (9.4 percent) and dived into a corporate vat... they're greedy," Minsky told the students.

"Education is a right," Marley maintained, calling for students at different campuses to cooperate in fighting tuition increases and cuts in aid.

Just 10 years ago, Marley noted, 80 percent of financial aid was granted to students, meaning they would not have to repay it. Today, less than 40 percent is granted. The rest is loaned.

About 30 students from Howard, Bowling Green and Kent State universities, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the universities of Ohio and Texas at Austin joined the Oberlin students.

"We're not working to build just one organization, but a movement where all the groups can get involved," said NCUPI's Rich Cowan.

Students gather at Oberlin College to discuss ways of slowing rate increases.

When does a date become a crime?

It happens when a man forces a woman to have sex against her will. And even when it involves college students, it's still considered a criminal offense. A felony. Punishable by prison. So if you want to keep a good time from turning into a bad one, try to keep this in mind.

When does a date become a crime?

When she says "No." And he refuses to listen.

Against her will is against the law.

There's only one product proven to grow even one of these.

This one.

From the time you first started losing your hair, you've wished for something that could somehow reverse the balding process. Now, The Upjohn Company has developed Rogaine, the first and only product that's proven to grow hair.

Rogaine is not a cosmetic or conditioner. It's a prescription treatment for male pattern baldness of the crown of the head that's available only with a prescription written by your doctor.

Two million men just like you have used Rogaine.

Today, two million men worldwide have seen their doctor and begun treatment with Rogaine. And for good reason. Rogaine works for many men. That's not a claim, it's a proven fact. Proven in clinical tests conducted by dermatologists at medical centers across the country. Proven by results that are simply unprecedented.

In a year-long test involving almost 1,500 men, only 16% reported no new growth. Virtually half (48%) saw at least moderate growth with Rogaine. 36% noted minimal growth. Generally, it took four months before hair began growing again. The side effects were minimal. The most common, itchy scalp, occurred in only 5% of the men.

Your doctor has the proof. And the prescription.

Your dermatologist or family physician will tell you what Rogaine can do for you. So see your doctor now. The sooner you get your prescription for Rogaine, the sooner you could be growing hair again.

For more information and a certificate worth $10 as an incentive to visit your doctor (sorry, this offer is available for men only), call the toll-free number below or send in this coupon.

Please send me a $10 certificate as an incentive to see my doctor. Send coupon to: The Upjohn Company, P.O. Box 9040, Opa Locka, FL 33054-9944

Spring concerts will jam

By Kim Kelley
Staff Writer

It's Spring Quarter, it gets warmer out, summer vacation is just around the corner and everyone is ready to have a good time. So what has the ASI Entertainment Committee got planned for CSUSB students? Plenty.

This is Chairman Pat Cooney's last quarter in office so he has planned some great events to keep students entertained. Some great bands are coming to continue the tradition of infamous Thursday nights at the Pub. The annual "End of the World" party is back, along with comedy night.

Cooney's goal this year was to expand entertainment at CSUSB to include the wide diversity of students that attend the university. "We wanted to appeal to as many students on campus as we could," Cooney said, "so that all students on campus would feel that they were a part of the campus community in some way or another." Cooney has tried to bring diversity to campus through different groups like "Food for Feet," "U Krew," Jazz music and comedy night. "The power of music brings people together and that's what we have tried to do."

When asked if he felt he has accomplished his goals this year, Cooney said "this kind of goal, when you're trying to unite a campus community of such diversity; commuter students, dorm students, etc., it takes united effort of more than 9 months." Cooney says next year's Entertainment Chairman and AS Productions Chair will have to have similar goals. "We feel that we have made some definite inroads and we hope because of this next year's budget will be increased and we can bring in more entertainment and speakers."

Cooney feels, thus far, "U Krew" has been the most successful campus event. "We also have high hopes for another outdoor event and the "End of the World" party. The party is a tradition and we want to build upon tradition. Every year the committee should expand and get bigger and better," Cooney said.

So what has been slated to WOW the campus with for Spring Quarter? May 3rd a progressive rock band called "MonkeyMeat" will be here. May 10th will be the Battle of the Clubs, which

Said prepares for future

By William Lundquist
Staff Writer

"My goal is to work with both Palestinian and Israeli people to help bring peace to the region."

Rima Said, Vice President of Associated Students, Inc. (ASI), is as serious about her future goals as she is about her present responsibilities at CSUSB.

Said, a senior, serves as Chair of the ASI Board of Directors, the heart of student government.

She describes the position as overwhelming at times, but says, "It has given me the opportunity to be part of a group that works to improve the lives of students on campus."

She is currently working with the board on the issue of public safety. The recent attempted rape on campus has led her to push for more patrol officers.

The proposed move to Division II athletics has also occupied her time lately. She stressed that, as always, the board needs more student input at its 10 a.m. Tuesday meetings.

Among the various clubs and organizations she has been involved with are the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee, and the Palestine Arab Fund.

Raised by traditional Arab parents, she has lived in the West Bank under Israeli military occupation. She believes that a solution to the conflict in the Middle East is still possible, and hopes to use her education and experience to help make such a solution a reality.

Said spent most of her childhood in the United States, but returned to Jerusalem, where she was born, to attend high school.

She said the most notable change in living under Israeli authority was her sense of the loss of freedom. She feels most people in the United States take their freedom and basic human rights for granted.

She would like students at CSUSB to "realize that a campus environment is more than just academics. There are many aspects of university life that student should become involved in for a complete and well-rounded education."

Summing up her own philosophy, she said, "I try to make a difference. I think that's what it's all about."

Meatless: a way of life

By Kevin R. Horney
Editor in Chief

Meat. That delectable staple in billions of people's diets. The filling, satisfying, and nourishing substitute to nuts and berries.

I was raised on the stuff. Every meal I can remember had some form of animal flesh in it. It was as much a part of my life as baseball and apple pie. It was a taste of America.

And now, all I hear when I bring my hamburger to work is "Oh, how can you eat that poor dead cow? Don't you know that stuff'll kill you? Think of your heart, your arteries, the rain forest!"

These arguments, coupled with Health Science 120, drove me to vegetarianism midway through my freshman year.

It was a rough transition, but in only a matter of weeks, I had all but lost my craving for meat products.

Meatless sauce on my spaghetti, lean slices of turkey in my sandwiches, no hamburgers (or fries), fruit salads, and lots of jello.

What soon followed were some of the most healthy months of my life. I was working-out, staying physically active, and eating right. My body-fat level dropped, I had more energy, and felt better about myself.

This euphoric existence lasted all of five months. What was the realization that caused my sudden reversal? Was it the fact that I suddenly didn't care about myself? My arteries? The rain forest?

No. It was a simple Double-Double, fries, and a vanilla shake.

But that simple meal led to another, and then another, and so on. What can I say, I'm a creature of habit.

I may be a fatalist, but I don't see the reason for cutting out all of the meat from my diet. True, over-indulgence is bad, and I stay a long ways away from that vice, but as long as it remains a food group, I'll eat a few servings of it.

Earth Day just passed recently, and environmental concerns are on the forefront of most people's minds, but I can't help shaking my head ever-so-slightly at the sight of a Ham Stacker minus the ham, a BLT minus the B, and a Veggie-burger medium rare.

I applaud those who's personal convictions are strong enough to manage a complete abstinence from environmentally detrimental behaviors. I personally couldn't manage it. Even though I was a vegetarian, I still drove an old car that used regular leaded gas, drank and ate from styro-foam containers, threw away aluminum cans, and used my electrical appliances during peak hours.

I couldn't justify my own personal environmental hypocrisy, so there wasn't much to hold me to my meatless habit.

I'm still reminded almost daily of the '62 Chevy pickups, belching blue smoke, rusting out at the floorboards, and dripping various fluids on the road with the "Save the Planet" bumper stickers on the tailgate.

So "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute", and don't ask others to make sacrifices you haven't made completely. Concentrate on yourself, and your conservation, and you will achieve yourself what you ask of others.

And think of it, you'll feel good about yourself and I'll enjoy my Double-Double.

Letter to Editor

Student angered over security

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in defense of the student body of CSUSB. I am not alone when I ask, "What does it take to get adequate security?" Every week there are more break-ins into our vehicles. Over the Easter weekend, my vehicle was broken into; this was the 157th car to be broken into for this year alone, and the quarter is not yet over. Why do we have such a lack of security? Because our administrators feel that security is sufficient. Of course, one patrolman on duty at a time with 12 hour shifts is plenty for a small town in Minnesota but this is San Bernardino. Our city ranks 16th in the nation for highest crime rates, and unfortunately it is not going down.

Our security and safety depends on you as fellow students and residents to focus the energy used to put down the system into physically doing something about it. We must be careful to realize it is not the fault of the police department or any of its officers. They are doing their job to the best of their abilities with the system they must work under. It is the Administration of this school that needs to either use the funds allocated to them for officers or request more government funding in order to adequately protect its students. It is up to us as the student body to demand that our rights be protected.

I urge everyone who feels we need more security, to write to the University President, Anthony Evans, and tell him how you feel. If enough people care, something will be done. Our pleas are the only thing that can change this system.

Student demands affirmative action

Dear Editor,

For many people, the issue of affirmative action in contemporary society is tantamount to something bordering on the plague in terms of the opposition and revulsion which many whites feel regarding the subject. More and more, I have been running across this type of enmity by whites as well as a considerable number of 'handkerchief-head' Negroes who do not want to give any appearance of exhibiting any form of individual behavior which might upset "Mr. Charlie."

The foremost complaint against the institution of affirmative action programs, which I hear ad nauseum, is that the best qualified person should be selected for whatever endeavor.

Hold it right there. Now, to speak to the issue from this perspective is to imply that all Americans started out, relatively speaking, with the equal opportunity to achieve their own measure of success. However, you know that this assertion is totally ridiculous and as far from the truth as is humanly possible.

No matter how strenuously you may try to expunge the truth from your children's history books; no matter how much you want to forget what your people did to my ancestors, all that is required is to open your eyes to see the legacy that you and yours have wrought against my people. Even though white Americans cannot stand to be reminded of their criminal acts of savagery against Afro-Americans, they know that not all newcomers to this country began their sojourn from the same starting blocks. In fact, while other groups were at the starting line, my brothers and sisters were in the locker room trying to get a pair of shoes in an effort to actually run in the race.

Caucasian-Americans can employ all the Orwellian 'doublespeak' language they want, but they will never fool the masses of Afro-Americans into believing that one plus one is equal to three.

In my opinion, the use of affirmative action and set-aside programs and legislation is merely a miniscule form of the admission of guilt by the white society that the African, both here and abroad, was brutally and maliciously treated by so-called Christianized Europeans. I view this simple act as a first step toward solving the sickness which white America suffers from.

America has and continues, in many respects, to resemble a drug addict. Like the addict, in his effort to maintain the facade that no problem exists, this society has difficulty admitting to itself that it has a racial problem, even though the scars are evident for all the world to see it. And as we all know, the more one denies that he is not ill, the worse the problem becomes for all associated with that individual.

Response to 'Defense of 5 to 4 conversion'

Dear Editor,

Well, here it is, our spring quarter, almost at the end of our academic year, and yet I continue to uncover conspiracy after conspiracy on our beloved campus. If you will remember, I uncovered the conspiracy behind the 5 to 4 unit conversion. This led to the Dean of Academic Affairs responding to my letter, (which I feel was a very good gesture on his part) in an attempt to defend the 5 to 4 unit conversion. And a good attempt it was, but it just seemed that his explanation as to why the conversion took place was just a little bit shaky. I found myself sliding my tongue across a great big salt-lick as I read it.

This led me to look a bit closer at some of our institution's academic and administrative policies. I wanted to find out if there was something else that the administration was trying to deceive us about. And, yes, I did find a few things like why does the administration call the classrooms behind the library "temporary" when they rest on concrete foundations and have been sitting there for the past three years. Why does the administration continue to follow an academic policy that is severely unfair to students. I say unfair, because it penalizes students who work hard to achieve a good grade and they wind up with (for example) an A- even though they average 90%. For that A-, that student receives a 3.7 and a student at a university where pluses and minuses do not effect one's grade will get a 4.0. And of course that student also averaged 90%. I feel that the plus and minus system in most cases causes students' overall GPA to decline. To back up my theory, I calculated my own GPA on a straight A,B,C,D,F grading system. My overall GPA at CSUSB is a 3.20, without the plus or minus my overall went up to 3.30. Do you realize how many A-'s I have gotten. I also tested my two roommates' GPAs. Both of theirs went up as well. But what really concerns me is the student who overall averages at least 70% in their classes, they receive a C- which is a 1.7 and this could lead to academic probation and ultimately expulsion, my god, they are doing satisfactory work but still can get kicked out of school. Oh, by the way, thank you Robin Rhodes Campbell. Your letter was excellent.

Well, enough with all the talk of conspiracies, actually these are not conspiracies but I like to use that word because it grabs people's attention.

I would also like to point out some of the things that get me really upset with our administration. Actually I would like to ask the administration a few questions and see if they have the intellect to answer them. 1) I take into consideration that amount of students who file for grad-checks, but why does it take at least two months to get our grad-checks back? 2) Why does it take at least three weeks to a month to receive an unofficial copy of our transcripts? 3) How come the copy-cards that are purchased at the student services desk only work on the copy machines in the Student Union. If you look on the third floor of the library there is one copy machine that accepts copy-cards. But guess what? It does not accept student copy cards. Why is that? 4) Why is it that ever time I go to make a copy on the third floor of the library or the first floor for that matter, at least 75% of the time the change machine is out of order. I would use my student copy-card but you guessed it, it will not work in the library. And at least 75% of the time the copy machines are out of paper. Let's see what do I do now...I can't get change, the copy machines are out of order...I know, I still have my copy-card! I'll just take the article down to the Pub and copy it there. But I can't because the electric sensors at the doors will stop me. So what do I do now...I got it, I'll just rip the page out. This is just an example of what goes on in my mind when it is a hassle to make copies of magazine articles. Do you know how many times I have come across articles that I have needed for research but found that they have been ripped out by some idiot? Do not get me wrong, I do not tear out articles, but sometimes I feel like doing so. 5) Why do I fill out a transcript request or a grad-check request in SS-100 office but then have to walk over to the Bursar's office to pay for it then take the receipt back over to the SS-100 office and give it to the person behind the desk. Or, I can have it sent over but who knows how long that will take?

These are just a few questions that I would like to have addressed. If anyone can answer them please do so. I think that I would sleep better at night knowing the answers to these questions.

Student feels committee is biased

Dear Editor,

I am writing in reference to the current ASI elections and the manner in which they are being run. I do not mean the performance of the candidates themselves, their methods though somewhat dirty are not unethical, but to the people that are running them, namely the elections committee and certain members of the current ASI executive branch which seem to be influencing the elections committee into a position that is somewhat biased in their treatment of the different candidates. I personally find these actions to be revolting and hope that these individuals are not hoping for any special treatment in the upcoming administration, whoever the victor is. The elections committee is supposed to be fair and impartial. It is too bad that this is not the case. It is situations like this that give politics and politicians a bad name. I personally hope that this will never happen again. I will not mention the names of those individuals involved, they know who they are and mention of their names at this late date (especially since this article will not appear until after the elections are complete) will only create more problems in a year that, to my knowledge, has been riddled with them. Grow up people, your behavior is inexcusable.

James Hacker

So, in conclusion, I see equal opportunity and affirmative action programs not as handouts; on the contrary, I view them as the beginning of the initial installment of the reparations payment which white America owes to Afro-America for the atom bomb which they dropped on us some four hundred years ago and for the radiation sickness that our people still suffer from.

Most whites label this form of writing as 'hate teaching.' That's only because they hate to hear it. But, as the saying goes, the truth will set you free! You did not die in vain, Brother Huey Newton! Peace.

If you think rape can't happen to you, you're in for a real education. Because statistics show that rape happens more to women in your age group than any other. In fact, this year, one out of six college women will be the victim of rape or attempted rape. Very often by someone she knows. A fellow student. Even a date. And that's a crime. Because any time a woman is forced to have sex against her will it's a felony. Rape. It's a subject no one should take lightly.

Specifically, Cooney would like to heighten the profile of student services and implement public safety measures. Mace, or self defense clinics are a possibility. As the former chair of the entertainment committee, he wants to continue an emphasis on quality entertainment.

Of those, and other campaign promises, he said, "I'm going to be in there pitching for those things."

He is also well aware of the tight budget ASI faces after the defeat of the fee referendum. "We're really going to have to be fiscally responsible."

Cooney, who will be a senior next year, is a political science major. He is aiming for law school after graduation in June, 1991.

Boomer, Ice and Co. Sweep in Power Burst Super Teams

Defending Champions, Team TKE were valiant in their efforts to repeat, but it wouldn't happen on this past Saturday. The trio known as Boomer, Ice & Co. were on a mission, "today we played for Hank", were the only words muttered from this team intent on victory. And so they would fulfill their desire as Gregg "Boomer" Bujnovsky, Tim "Ice" Watkins, and La Quica "Co." Xavieromansky (not her real name), dusted all who challenged them. The event was Power Burst Super Teams (thanks go to Inland Beverage), a day long sports extravaganza made up of four challenging events: volleyball, tug o' war, frisbee relay, and six-pack pitch-in. Four teams squared off, but were no match to the trio with a cause as Boomer, Ice & Co. set a precedence as they swept the tournament by winning all four events. Second place Team TKE was tough, but just not tough enough; "we're no girly-man's, but we didn't play to our full potential", commented TKE Mike Shea. Finishing third were CSUSB's newest greeks, the Tri Lam's led by Female Athlete of the Day, Kerry "typo" Bassett. Bringing up the rear were the members of Alpha Rho Mu made up of Male Athlete of the Day, Mike D, formerly of the Beastie Boys, Renee Barglowski, and Arturo "I just came for the free stuff" Paz.

Las Vegas-Style Poker Fun Run and Walk (great prizes!)

This is a participation event, not a timed race. Participants will walk, crawl, run or whatever, over a meager 1.2 mile scenic course. Each person will be given a playing card at each of five stations; at the end of the course, the best 5-card poker hand wins one of several prizes donated by Jerseys Pizza and San Bernardino Ski & Sport. Bob E says, "Come out and do this, 1.2 miles is a cake walk; have some fun, lose some calories, make new friends, see the world, and play some cards. This event will be held Wednesday, May 9th at 12:00 noon, or at 2:45 P.M. (either time is fine). Show up just west of the P.E. building.

Caskey dedicated to the sport of tennis

By Kim Perkins
Staff Writer

The opponents have arrived with tennis racquets in hand. Eyes flash back and forth. The air is tense with anticipation. Faint smiles appear as one team welcomes the other.

CSUSB student and athlete, Erin Caskey, is the Coyotes' number one women's tennis player. Caskey, with blonde hair and blue eyes, is a California native and has lived in Riverside all of her life. She is currently a senior at CSUSB and is playing her fourth year of collegiate tennis.

Though Caskey was a synchronized swimmer for eleven years she had always played recreational tennis. Having swam for a team in Riverside, Caskey pursued her swimming abilities at the University of Arizona. After her first year, the U of A dropped her beloved sport and Caskey came back to California. She then transferred to Riverside Community College and took up tennis as a serious sport. She played for RCC for two years at number three and is currently, as well as last year, playing number one at CSUSB.

Caskey says that playing number one on the women's tennis team is "an honor...a lot to live up to, but I like it! It's nice to represent the school in something."

In retrospect to being a student and an athlete at the same time, Caskey states, "You don't have a lot of time to do other things. But that makes you a better person - responsible, and dedicated. It will help later on out in the world. It's hard, but it's worth it - definitely."

Caskey graduates this June with a degree in marketing and will then pursue a job in the field. As for sports, she states, "I will probably just play it for fun, maybe a few tournaments, but more for recreation."

Caskey said, "Tennis is a great sport, a mental sport. I enjoy it and being out in the sun."

CSUSB baseball has fallen in Love

By Jeff Zelenaki
Staff Writer

One big reason for the success of our CSUSB baseball team this season has been their Love. Senior second baseman Ryan Love has contributed to the Coyote season after transferring from William Penn College in Iowa.

After his junior year he moved back to San Diego, and got in contact with Head Coach Chuck Deagle. "He (Love) and a couple other guys got a hold of me over the summer," said Deagle. "But I don't take nine out of ten guys that come to me as seniors."

Love's desire to play baseball another season and his personality shone through when Deagle talked with him about attending CSUSB.

"The thing that impressed me was that he was pure. He's an honest kid that has been brought up well," said Deagle. "He really wanted to play."

Since making the move to CSUSB, Love has enjoyed the changes.

"The weather has been a big factor and the change in competition. We played some Division I schools back there but the teams in our league were terrible," said Love. "Here it seems that all the teams are competitive."

It seems that the move to the west coast has worked out for both parties involved. "I'm glad that we took him, but I think it's been a two way street," said Deagle.

This season Love's presence has been felt on the field. Currently, he leads the team in at bats (122), hits (45), doubles (10), home runs (4), total bases (71), and batting average (.369). To go along with his work at the plate, his fielding percentage is a steady .959. He has only three errors all season at his busy second base position.

Earlier in the season he was named to the Coyote/San Bernardino Rotary-North Spring Baseball Classic All-Tournament Team.

During the tournament he hit .462 to help lead CSUSB to the championship.

"I feel every year I play my stats have gotten better, but this year's are not as good as last year's," said Love. "Last year I hit over .400 and hit seven home runs."

"I was putting a lot of pressure on myself at the beginning of the year, but now I'm coming along. The other guys on the team have confidence in me now," said Love.

This past weekend the Coyotes defeated UCSD to improve their overall record to 22-12, which is the best record in the Western Region.

With two more games until the playoffs the Coyotes should have a chance to make the Regional playoffs. "I don't know what to say. We are playing good right now, but it's hard to say. I'm happy to be in the position that we are in," said Deagle.

Whatever happens to the Coyotes this season Love hopes to continue to play baseball. Currently he has a couple of professional scouts looking at him.

"Coach has talked to some guys from the Angels and Montreal organizations and I've talked to Detroit on my own," said Love. "Basically all I can do is wait until the draft in June. I would love to try and play professional ball and play as long as possible. That's a dream of every kid who starts playing little league."

What if a team doesn't draft him? "I'll go to some of the the tryout camps," said an enthusiastic Love.

Deagle seems to think that Love deserves a shot at the professional ranks. "He deserves a chance, I would love to see him get drafted," said Deagle.

"I know that some people are interested in him, but I don't know how much. He's a great kid, he's got good talent, good work ethic, and he loves the game, he really deserves a shot."

His dreams for the pros are on hold right now and the thought of the Division III playoffs have priority, but whatever happens in either one, it's going to take a little Love.

For all its worth

Baseball paints playoff picture

CSUSB's baseball team has all but cinched a playoff bid in the 1990 Western Regionals. With its final game of the season today against Christ College, the Coyotes' record of 22-12 (pending result of yesterday's game versus Claremont), the best in the region, should carry the team to playoffs.

The Coyotes have won 19 of its last 24 games since March 10, including two games from Division III rival UCSD on Saturday. The losses have pushed UCSD out of the playoff picture, and left CSUSB and Claremont on top of the West.

Both teams should receive a bid, and a five-game series will decide who would represent the West in the Final Four.

The Coyotes feel confident about their ability in a five-game series as their top five pitchers will be bringing some impressive numbers with them. The five-man combined ERA is a scant 3.12, with 196 strikeouts to 78 walks over 216 innings. Their record is an impressive 19-6 with six saves.

A site for the playoff game will be decided once the teams have been selected.

Price resigns from coaching position

CSUSB golf coach Greg Price has announced that he is resigning his coaching position effective at the conclusion of the 1990 season. Price has been in charge of the CSUSB golf program since its inception in 1986.

Price, 42, is also a professor in the Physical Education department. He cited an increased academic load versus the necessary time commitment to an intercollegiate golf program as the reasons for his resignation.

"Greg Price has done an outstanding job with the Cal State golf program," said CSUSB athletic director David L. Suenram, "His record will speak for itself on how he has built this program into one of the strongest in NCAA Division III.

"Although we are disappointed to lose a coach of Greg's caliber, I understand his reasons and plan to make every effort to find a replacement who can carry on the good work he has started at Cal State, San Bernardino. I feel we are fortunate to have had someone with his expertise and dedication as the founder of the golf program at the school."

Price, after his overall record of 8-12 in the inaugural 1986 season, has seen his teams remain in the national top-20 since March of 1987. Included in that run were a third place national finish in 1988 (the highest finish in NCAA team championship competition by any CSUSB sport) and a fourth place finish in the 1987 national championships. His winning percentage in four seasons is a sterling .802%.

The Coyotes finished the 1990 regular season with a perfect 15-0 dual match record and are ranked fifth in the nation, according to the latest poll. Cal State's team will be participating in the NCAA Division III national championships at Jekel Island, Ga., May 22-25.
